PA NEW OBSERVES

Probably the first of the season! There are a number of daffodils in full bud, ready to burst forth into bloom, in the yard of Charles George of South Pine street.

Lawn rolling and grass seed planting season has been ushered in again, Pa New observes. Rollers were operating on numerous lawns last night, while on others grass seed was being scattered.

Wonder why something in the way of resurfacing couldn't be done on parts of East Washington street. With this street being used as the Perry highway for the summer, there are some portions of East Washington street, especially beyond the Thaddeus Stevens school that the paving is anything but smooth.

New Castle public schools resumed this morning, after Easter vacation of a week or more.

Italian Military Activity Reported Near Greek Border

By EDWARD STORER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, April 11.—Intense Italian military activity was authoritatively reported near the Greek border in occupied Albania today.

Reliable advices said the troop movements were occurring at Koriza at the entrance of the valley which leads from Albania into Salonika, Greece.

Four columns of troops, these reports stated, including motorized tank units, were converging upon Koriza where detachments of Italian grenadiers arrived by airplane yesterday.

In addition, it was learned that four ships carrying troops, gasoline

Fighting Has Ceased
A dispatch from Tirana said other detachments reached the towns of Tepelena and Devoli near the Greek border.

Although Italian reports claimed all fighting in Albania has ceased, four ambulances remained at the Brindisi airport, ready to care for wounded soldiers brought back by plane from the scene of operations.

Most of the bombing planes stationed at the Brindisi base were sent to Albania.

All telephone communications between Rome and Brindisi were completely occupied by government officials. Permission to travel to Albania was still withheld from foreign news correspondents in Italy.

Delay In Enactment Of Emergency Tax Program Indicated

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, April 11.—An indefinite delay in the enactment of the James administration $163,000,000 emergency tax program appeared likely today pending clarification of the administration's fiscal policy.

Senator G. Mason Owlett, Republican majority leader and chairman of the Senate Finance Committee which is now considering the eight house-approved bills, intimated that the bills would probably not be reported out this week.

Court Decree Is Problem
Present plans were to keep the bills in committee until some decision was reached on what action the administration would take to offset the possible $33,000,000 loss in revenue occasioned by invalidation of the state franchise tax. An appeal to the State Supreme Court is now pending.

At the same time it was authoritatively learned that the senate committee considering the status of Senator Herbert B. Levin, ousted

Asserts Only One Amendment To Labor Act Is Desirable At Present

By JACK VINCENT

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Defending the National Labor Relations act as a bulwark of democracy and justice, Senator Robert F. Wagner (D) of New York, its author, vigorously opposed a score of proposed changes as the Senate Labor committee opened hearings today on pending amendments.

Indorses One Amendment
Wagner indorses one amendment, to permit employers as well as employees to petition the labor board for an election for collective bargaining representation. He held as worthy of study amendments which would prohibit the board from invalidating existing bona fide union contracts, and compel the board to respect craft union contracts in determining collective bargaining representatives.

With these exceptions, Wagner condemned the amendments of Senators Walsh (D) of Massachusetts, and Burke (D) of Nebraska, as "im-pairments" to the act, and advised

Poland Will Not Demobilize Army

(International News Service)
LONDON, April 11.—The London Daily Express reported from Warsaw today that official circles there declared Poland will refuse to demobilize its army of 1,300,000 men under arms "merely because another power suggests or desires it."

(The request that Poland demobilize its forces was reported to have been made by Germany last week. Poland increased its military strength following the German occupation of Memel.)

In a nation-wide radio broadcast, Colijn declared that desire to remain neutral "in all circumstances" was the sole reason for the government's action in calling up frontier battalions during the night.

Expect Britain To Issue Mediterranean Warning

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 11.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's announcement to the House of Commons Thursday will contain a warning that Britain will consider any further change in the Mediterranean status quo as an unfriendly act, it was learned in reliable quarters in London today.

The prime minister is expected to make clear to the world that Britain will take immediate steps if such an attempt is made, according to well informed quarters in which, however, there was no specific knowledge of the exact nature of these retaliatory measures.

It was understood that the British plans include provision for an immediate assault on the Dodecanese Islands in the event of war.

(Athens reports have indicated the recent arrival of heavy Italian reinforcements in these Italian-controlled islands which lie between the Greek islands and the Asia Minor coast of Turkey.)

Later, there was a meeting of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the cabinet which, it was understood, studied messages from Rome setting forth a disclaimer by Premier Benito Mussolini of any hostile intentions toward Greece.

Engineers Hear Plan For Industrial Mobilization

Declaring that "we think it's a very sound plan, but we hope we don't have to try it out," Capt. Randall J. Hogan, assistant executive officer for the United States army's Pittsburgh ordnance district, last night described to members and guests of the Mahoning-Shenango Valley Engineer's society the basic points of America's industrial mobilization set-up in war-time.

He called it a plan which will "coordinate men with materials." While he said that some of its essentials are not exactly new as ideas go, they are new in action.

Hundred Fifty Attend
Present to bear Capt. Hogan speak on the subject which American regard as extremely important in these turbulent days, were 150 members of the engineer's organization and outside friends from Youngstown, Sharon, Ellwood City and other surrounding points.

The captain, whose message was carried to the crowd over a public address system, spoke in The Castleton dining room. His audience overflowed into the lounge.

Thomas L. Paden, Pennsylvania Power company executive and president of the society, presided. He introduced Capt. Hogan.

More Than 32,000 Soft Coal Miners Waiting Patiently For New Contract

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 11.—Union leaders and coal operators today began their fifth week of negotiations for a new labor contract for the Appalachian area and Alabama in a state of continued deadlock over the closed shop issue.

John L. Lewis, head of the CIO United Mine Workers of America, remained firm in his demands that the new contract contain a closed shop clause and also give the miners the right to strike. The mine operators remained as unyielding in their refusal to grant these concessions as the basis for a two-year extension of the old contract which expired March 31.

Meanwhile, some 32,000 miners in the affected area remained idle, refusing to work without a contract.

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 11.—While British warships sped to strategic positions in the Mediterranean intensive diplomatic activity kept the wires hot between Europe's major capitals today as Great Britain sought to terminate Europe's latest crisis.

Communications sizzled between London and Rome as Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's government sought elucidation of Italy's intentions regarding the status quo in the Mediterranean area.

Britain Demands Assurance
Britain sought cast-iron assurances from Italy that Premier Mussolini plans no further moves in that area—particularly that he plans no action against Greece.

It appears that the results of these soundings in Rome would determine the strength of Prime Minister Chamberlain's declaration involving Greece, Turkey and possibly Rumania before the House of Commons on Thursday.

(Background note: Under terms of the Anglo-Italian friendship pact, Italy promised not to alter the status quo in the Mediterranean. British authorities hold that Premier Mussolini broke this pledge by the Italian occupation of Albania and the reported concentration of Fascist troops along the Greco-Albanian border. In his statement on Thursday, Chamberlain is expected to announce the British government

Roosevelt And Dewey Lead Field

Racket-Buster Shows Big Lead

Garner Close Behind Roosevelt As Possible Choice For Standard Bearer

MANY MENTIONED AS LIKELY LEADERS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

(Copyright 1939)

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Roosevelt and Dewey are the most popular choices of the east for the 1940 presidential nominations, according to a poll conducted by International News Service.

President Roosevelt is a minority favorite in the east for another nomination, despite the traditional ban on third terms. He barely posed out Vice President John N. Garner for the favorite's spot among Democrats, with the field scattered far behind them.

Dewey Leads

Young racket-busting Thomas E. Dewey of New York apparently has captured the imagination of the east, as he outran the entire Republican field. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan ran far behind in second place, just a nose ahead of Senator Robert H. Taft of Ohio. Former President Herbert Hoover was fourth and Gov. Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania was fifth.

The poll reflected the popular strength of presidential possibilities—not votes in the conventions that will nominate the candidates next year. Political leaders, who control the delegations, were cagey. Democrats were waiting largely for President Roosevelt to announce his intentions for 1940. Republicans, while privately boosting Dewey, generally expressed belief some one else would gain the GOP nomination, despite his present popularity.

Democratic Poll

On the Democratic side, the poll taken throughout the east showed: Roosevelt, 36.5 per cent; Garner, 32.7 per cent; Secretary of State Cordell Hull, 6.1 per cent; Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, 5.3 per cent; Postmaster General James A. Farley, 4.1 per cent; and Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri, 3.8 per cent, with many others getting scattered votes. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York and Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy of New York were the best of the rest.

On the Republican side, the results: Dewey, 46.5 per cent; Vandenberg, 16.8 per cent; Taft, 14.9 per cent; Hoover, 5.4 per cent; James, 4.9 per cent; Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, 3.2 per cent; Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City, 2.2 per cent; and Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, 1.4 per cent. There were scattered votes for Alf M. Landon, the GOP nominee in 1936, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and Governor John W. Bricker of Ohio.

New York Dems For Garner

Roosevelt led Garner in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Maryland. Garner carried New York state, Connecticut by the bare nose, and Massachusetts. Kennedy led in New Hampshire, Hull in Maine, Clark in Vermont.

In his own home state of New York, Roosevelt drew 27.5 per cent of the vote against Garner's 39.0 per cent. Hull and Hopkins ran almost even, far behind, with Farley even further in the rear.

In Pennsylvania, Roosevelt got 38.5 per cent of the vote, with Garner drawing 29.4 per cent. Farley and Hopkins were almost dead-ed far behind, with Hull in fifth place. The president dominated the Maryland vote—where so many government workers live—getting 51 per cent of the vote. Garner was second with Kennedy in third place.

Many States For Dewey

In the Republican balloting, Dewey led in every state except Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire. Vandenberg was a favorite in Maine, Taft in Vermont by a nose over Dewey, and in New Hampshire. In New York state, Dewey got 50.9 per cent of the GOP choices. Vandenberg was second with 17.5 per cent and Taft third with 14.0 per cent. LaGuardia ran fourth, far behind.

In Pennsylvania, Dewey drew 41 per cent of the votes, Vandenberg getting 19.7 per cent and Taft, 15.6 per cent. Governor James ran fourth.

In Massachusetts, Dewey won 59.1 per cent of the Republican guesses. Lodge was second, far, far behind, with Vandenberg and Hoover heading the rest.

In the Democratic balloting, the president drew his support chiefly from workers and unemployed. Garner, however, won labor support, too, and even got an occasional vote from the unemployed. His great strength rested in the so-called middle classes.

On the Republican side, Dewey drew from all classes—save the political leaders, who constantly declared: "It is too early to make a choice."

Typical Comment

Uptate New York (Democrat): "Right now, the Democrats here will be for Roosevelt because they don't think they can win otherwise."

Philadelphia restaurant manager (Democrat): "The safest man in the Democratic party is Garner."

Pennsylvania housewife (no party allegiance): "Hopkins appears to be the best man because he is a liberal not too extremely so."

Maryland publisher (Democrat): "Cordell Hull is my first choice; Kennedy my second choice."

Boston housewife (Republican): "Have the Republicans any other candidate? All I hear is Dewey. He's my choice."

Rhode Island worker (Republican): "It's Dewey unless the middle west can give us as good a man."

New York radio comedian (Republican): "Lodge comes from a state that took 150 years to ratify the bill of rights. They must be cautious up there and we could use a cautious man in the White House."

Connecticut business man (Republican): "Give me Taft. Dewey hasn't had enough experience."

Democratic senator from the Second Philadelphia district, will declare the seat vacant and recommend a special election. It was expected that the senate would concur, following which Lieut-Gov. Samuel S. Lewis would set November 7 as the date for the election to fill the seat now jointly claimed by Senator Levin and Senator Samuel W. Salus, Republican.

Senate Republicans, rebuffed by the Democratic minority in another attempt to break the confirmation jam in the senate, retaliated by calling up the Stockman-Alspach house-approved bill to permit the governor to oust Public Utility Commissioners for "political activity."

The bill would also permit confirmation of public utility commissioners by a majority vote, instead of a two-thirds majority as at present, and thus pave the way for the confirmation of John Siggins, Jr., of Warren, Gov. Arthur H. James' P. U. C. appointee.

FEAR RUMANIA MAY DECIDE TO BOW TO GERMANY

obliteration, will be camouflaged, it was said, by later visits by Gafencu to Brussels, London and Paris.

Nevertheless, it is feared that if Gafencu once comes under the scorching heat of Hitlerism in Berlin, he may be compelled to surrender like Schuschnig or Hacha, or at least refuse to proposed British guarantee and the invitation to join the "stop-Hitler" alliance.

Background note: The fall of Austria into the Nazi sphere was preceded by a visit to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler at Berchtesgaden by the then Austrian Chancellor Dr. Kurt von Schuschnig. Early this year, President Emil Hacha was called to Berlin by Hitler, and Nazi seizure of Bohemia and Moravia followed a day later.

British Plans Handicap

The apparent disinclination of Rumania to join wholeheartedly in the "stop-Hitler" movement has handicapped British plans to put an end to Nazi aggression by an encircling system of alliances.

Thus far, Rumania has declined a pledge of mutual assistance such as that given by Poland in exchange for a British guarantee of political and territorial integrity.

It was recalled that Rumania turned a deaf ear to British diplomatic arguments and signed with Germany a trade pact which gave the Reich valuable oil and other concessions. The Rumanians are believed to prefer a working arrangement with Germany to any new system of alliances which in event of conflict would enable Soviet troops to cross Rumanian soil.

The British fear, however, that any such working agreement would in the final analysis be a one-sided one, with Rumania emerging as another vassal of the mighty German empire that Hitler is creating in Europe.

the committee to study all factors involved before making any changes at all.

First Witness

He was the first witness to appear as the committee started hearings on proposals for changes, given only the slimmest chance for adoption at this session of congress. Similar proceedings were in preparation in the house, and chances were better there for committee approval of a Wagner act modification program than in the senate committee. Pressure for an investigation of the labor board gave amendment proposals an added impetus in the house.

Accusing "selfish interests," which, he said, sought to break down the law, Wagner said the hearings should be revealing, and that he stood ready to sponsor "wise changes" when the need for such changes was shown. He asserted that the burden of the proof for the need for changes should be placed upon witnesses appearing before the committee.

The hearings opened before a large crowd in the ornate caucus room in the senate office building. Members of the National Labor Relations board were in the audience. They were J. Warren Madden, chairman; Donald Wakefield Smith, and Edwin S. Smith.

Chairman Thomas announced that later on the board members will be called to testify.

ENGINEERS HEAR PLAN FOR MOBILIZATION

Morgan, chief executive officer, was termed by the speaker as one of the most important of the army's 14 like offices through the nation.

District Vital

"When you think of ordnance," Capt. Hogan asserted, "you think of steel, and when you think of steel you think of Pittsburgh." The great concern of the Pittsburgh branch, he pointed out, is surveying the heavy industries and determining their possible capacity in wartime. He said industry is co-operating well.

For industry the army offers two principal classifications which would concern them if hostilities came—one known as an "accepted schedule of production" and another called an "educational order."

Capt. Hogan told his audience as he began that all statements were "personal opinions" and "no official opinions."

The ordnance district at Pittsburgh, were war to come, would immediately go under the command of a prominent Pittsburgh district civilian—Frank B. Bell, who is president of Edgewater Steel Company. All of the 14 offices would have civilian chiefs.

Capt. Hogan answered questions at the close.

Regular engineering society announcements were made during the evening by the secretary, W. W. "Les" Weitzel.

decision to protect Greece, Turkey and Rumania from possible aggression.

Fear 'Appeasement'

Meanwhile, the British press—evidently owing to Chamberlain's reluctance to denounce the Anglo-Italian pact on strength of the Albanian invasion, exposed fears that Chamberlain is in "danger of being reconverted" to his former policy of appeasing Europe's dictators.

With virtual unanimity, British newspapers urged the government to display the utmost firmness immediately and to do everything possible to strengthen the position of the European Democracies.

The press warned Chamberlain to place no trust in Mussolini's assurances that he plans to restrict his military activity to Albania and has no designs upon Greece.

In addition, there was mounting evidence in British diplomatic quarters that the French are becoming perturbed with what they regard as the "distastefulness" of the British government in dealing with Il Duce.

Naval Moves

Revelation of the quick British naval measure in the Mediterranean came with an announcement that units of the Mediterranean fleet, commanded by Admiral Sir Dudley Pound, which had been visiting Italian and French ports, had been ordered to rejoin the main body of warships "some place at sea."

Reports that British vessels were concentrating off Corfu, Greek Island located off Southern Albania and site of a British naval base went without official verification. The reports excited speculation, however, owing to unconfirmed rumors that Corfu figured in Mussolini's plans.

Best information was that the British vessels were heading for strategic positions in both the eastern and western Mediterranean to be in a position to enforce the decision of the British government should the crisis precipitate a showdown.

To Patrol Greece

The decision of the government to protect Greece and the other two nations against a feared thrust by Italy was taken at a vitally important cabinet meeting which marked another step in Great Britain's campaign against aggressive moves by the totalitarian powers.

Mighty British warcraft steamed for the Greek coast to support by a show of naval strength the British warning to the Italian government that any attack against Greece would amount to a virtual "casus belli"—cause of war.

At the same time Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's government launched stern moves to persuade Premier Mussolini to withdraw all Italian troops from Spain as proof that he has no further intention of changing the status quo in the Mediterranean area.

According to deliberately inspired comment, aimed by the British government to influence Il Duce, this proposition was advanced:

"If Mussolini will agree to renounce all thought of military action to alter the status quo, then, instead of bilateral pacts, the British government will seek a larger regional pact to safeguard the entire Mediterranean area."

Both the British and French naval forces were virtually on a basis of semi-mobilization in the Mediterranean and North Sea—but especially at both ends of the Mediterranean.

MARY ELIZABETH UBER WEDS IN CHURCH TODAY

This morning, in St. Mary's church, Mary Elizabeth Uber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Suber of Bell Avenue, became the bride of Walter Francis Belka, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Belka, of South Mill street, at a quiet but impressive ceremony.

The Rev. Fr. Leo P. Watterson officiated with nuptial high mass at 9 o'clock before the beautifully decorated church altar. Easter lilies were silhouetted against a solid green background of palms and ferns.

A tea rose knobby wool sport suit with navy blue accessories, was chosen by the bride, and she wore with it an heirloom amethyst ring and carried Rosary beads and a corsage orchids.

The couple had as their only attendants Mr. and Mrs. James Maher. She wore an old rose wool suit with accompaniments in royal blue. Her corsage was also of orchids.

Supplementing the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served the bridal party at The Castleton hotel. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Belka left on a motor trip to New York City and points east. For traveling, the bride was attired in a royal blue suit with dusty pink accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the New Castle high school with the class of '34. For the past seven years she has been engaged as a dancing instructor, having her own school in this city.

The groom, a graduate of the local high school, is also a member of the '34 class. He is affiliated with the Dawn Dairy concern.

The couple have received a collection of lovely shower and wedding gifts to use in their new residence, 814 Grant street, where they will be "at home" after May 1 to their host of friends.

Since the announcement of their engagement, the bride has been feted at a series of parties and showers.

Mr. And Mrs. J. E. Ramsey Observe 70th Anniversary Of Their Wedding Date

Surrounded by their children and grandchildren down to the fourth generation, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ramsey, of New Wilmington observed their 70th wedding anniversary on Monday, the occasion being one which will live long in the memory of all who were present.

Blessed with remarkably good health, Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey have lived a long and useful life, and can look forward to more wedding anniversaries. In fact, Mr. Ramsey, who is a keen observer of world affairs, says he is anxious to live long enough to find out what is going to happen over in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey were married April 10, 1869 by the Rev. John McCrumb, pastor of the New Wilmington Methodist church. They took up housekeeping in New Wilmington, where they resided until 39 years ago, when they moved onto their little farm just on the western border of the town.

Mr. Ramsey was born in New Wilmington, where his father came in 1833 from North East, Pa. Mr. Ramsey's father was a cabinet maker, and by nature of this profession, was also the town's undertaker. The son, J. E. Ramsey followed in his footsteps, their place of business being on Market street, across from the church site then being outside the town boundaries. Later, Mr. Ramsey turned to painting and followed that trade until only a few years ago.

Mrs. Ramsey was Iva Lucille Anderson, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. C. Anderson, of Rich Hill, and was a cousin of the late President William McKinley, who lived in New Wilmington when a boy. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey recall him as a barefoot boy, playing about the village. The McKinley family lived on Furnace Hill, near the old iron furnace.

Mr. Ramsey's last boyhood chum, John Finley, of Sewickley, who visited with him last summer, died since then, and he is the last survivor of his day in the village.

Although too young to get into the army at the time of the Civil War, Mr. Ramsey recalls the stirring incidents of that time. His father was an ardent abolitionist and ran an "underground railroad station." He recalls an occasion, when the government forces, trying to discover who were engaged in the practice, were making things pretty hot for the operators of the "underground railway" as it was called, and that is those who secreted runaway slaves and aided them in their escape from the southern slave states to Canada, where they were safe from their former owners. Mr. Ramsey secreted the slave in a coffin, which was hauled to a certain home, as if a funeral was taking place, and the slave, hidden in the coffin was then taken on to another station farther north, as a "corpse."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey have been Republicans, and Mr. Ramsey recalls voting for General U. S. Grant for president, when he was elected to office the second time in 1873.

They can both recall much of the early history of New Wilmington, the early days of the college. They can recall when the boundary limits of the borough were much smaller than at present, and when most of the land east of Market street was entirely farmland.

They were the parents of ten children, six of whom are still living, and who were present for yesterday's anniversary gathering. They are Lew Ramsey and Mrs. J. W. Darr, of Warren, O.; Mrs. L. E. Weir, of Cortland, O.; Mrs. H. T. Thompson, of Greenville, Pa.; Mrs. Helen Ramsey, who resides at home. They also have 25 grandchildren, 26 great grandchildren, and one great-great grandchildren, five generations being represented in the family.

During the afternoon, many relatives and friends gathered to congratulate them and to bring them flowers and gifts in honor of the occasion. There was a family dinner at 6 o'clock, and another period of congratulation from 7 to 9 o'clock last evening.

Besides the children, most of the grandchildren and great grandchildren were present for the occasion. 210 being registered, coming from Pittsburgh, Ellwood City, Burin, Greenville, Grove City, Mercer and New Castle, in Pennsylvania; Warren, Youngstown, Poland and Akron, O.; and Passaic, New Jersey.

The honored guests were the recipients of a great number of messages of congratulation and beautiful floral pieces. A color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in the dining room, a center piece of carnations and Easter lilies, and a large wedding cake decorated with a bride and groom, centering the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey have always been interested in music and entertained with a duet, while vocal numbers were also contributed by Sam Burrows, of Ellwood City, and Rev. and Mrs. McKinley, of Burin, Pa.

Mrs. Rhynes, past grand matron of Ohio and Mother Adaptor of the Youngstown assembly and her group, were most welcome guests at last evening's frolic.

Mrs. Helen McCollum is worthy advisor of New Castle Order of Rainbow, this term, and Miss Johanna Hood, assembly chairman. Miss Gerry Pick and her committee decorated, and special mention goes to their most gracious general chairman, Mrs. Lenore Urey, who contributes much to the success of these occasions.

ANNA AYERS GUEST AT BIRTHDAY PARTY
Miss Anna Ayers was again honored Monday evening when upon returning to her home on West Washington street, she learned that a host of friends had assembled to share in celebrating her birthday anniversary.

Contests were enjoyed and the winners were Ursula Rowbottom, Frances and Eleanor Robinson. The hostess' award was given to Betty Hannon. Aides in serving a tasty repast were Dorothy Dodds and Ursula Rowbottom.

Many lovely gifts were received by the honoree.

Section F. Y. L. B.
Mrs. John Moore, Logan avenue, will be hostess to members of Section F, of the Y. L. B. class, Third U. P. church, at their business and social meeting to be held Thursday evening.

"HELLO, FOLKS! SON ELLIOTT SPEAKING"

FOR the second time within a few weeks Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president, has beaten the big bass drum for John Garner as a signal for 1940. Unless his father should stand for a third term, young Mr. Roosevelt believes it "will be hard to unseat" Mr. Garner from "the driver's seat that he now fills."

In view of the role he assumed several months ago as advance agent for the vice president's boomlet, son Elliott's prediction is not so surprising as his open attack on some of the most cherished New Deal Administration policies.

He declares that, with a reduction in government spending and "a swing of the pendulum of government favoritism from the extreme labor side more nearly to the centre in favor of capital, we may expect to see a new surge toward recovery within the next year."

Young Mr. Roosevelt is opposed to the New Deal's present farm and foreign trade policies. If current reports of Mr. Garner's own beliefs are true, then his campaign manager has apparently expressed them accurately and vigorously—something the vice president is naturally hesitant to do himself. But Elliott's exuberance whenever he gets before the microphone will continue to mystify the shrewdest political wisecracks until he explains what's back of it all.

Is it possible that the presidential bee is buzzing in Elliott's own bonnet? For Mr. Garner controls a lot of delegates whom he might be willing to release to someone whose mind is attuned to his own.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

WHEN COLLEGE GIRLS CRAM CALORIES

While some medical men are urging women to eat sensibly without worrying about avoirdupois, a glowing report from Wilson College, at Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, declares its students have about reached an ideal attitude toward their victuals. Says Miss Katherine Krug, dietitian:

"They have found that well-balanced meals are not nearly as fattening as sandwiches and sundaes consumed at odd moments. They attend meals regularly, even breakfast which many used to omit in favor of extra sleep."

Furthermore, Miss Krug boasts that the college's milk consumption has trebled in a decade; even spinach is popular, she solemnly insists. Nor is the Wilson report isolated; girls on many campuses are cramming on calories as well as chemistry.

What this may mean for the future of the race nobody can predict. Perhaps it is enough to know that the colleges are turning out husky young women who personify the worth of plenty of nourishing food.

WHERE WILL THE NEXT HOLOCAUST STRIKE?

"Vast sections of many U. S. cities are potential deathtraps, built by man," says Fortune. "Long overdue in one of these cities is a holocaust, and it will come without fail. It may be another ghastly mass cremation like the Triangle Waist sweatshop fire in New York, wherein 145 persons, nearly all of them girls, perished in 1911 because the owners refused to spend the paltry amount of money necessary to give even a fair degree of safety. It may be another conflagration such as burned Paris, Texas, to the ground in 1916; such as swept through Salem, Massachusetts, in 1914. . . .

"It is appalling to contemplate the certainty of the recurring ruin of life or property on such a vast scale; but any realistic approach to the U. S. fire problem must do so. To the fire specialist, the syllogism is obvious: (1) Past conflagrations were the effects of specific known causes. (2) Identical causes still exist in a great many places. Therefore, just as sure as God blows dry winds over wooden roofs, fire will blacken cities again."

"Clearly there is an important variable in the pat logic. The variable concerns the matter of fire causes. If the causes can be controlled, even partially, then the next conflagration can at least be postponed."

That puts the issue squarely where it belongs—up to all the communities of America, and all the people who live in them. Up-to-date building codes, the elimination of fire-traps, scientific inspections of property to discover and eliminate hazards, unremitting education of both children and adults—these are fire's most potent enemies. If they are used to the full, it may be that the next horrible holocaust of which Fortune speaks will not only be postponed, but prevented.

KEEP AMERICA OUT OF WAR

American citizens who have been prone to adopt the fatalistic viewpoint that this country inevitably must participate in the next general war, if and when it comes, now have something with which to reckon.

Testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Bernard M. Baruch gave the lie to this gloomy attitude. He said in effect that we can keep out of war, and, moreover, that we can do so without ignoring "faithfulness" on the part of other nations.

Mr. Baruch believes that the "cash and carry" system, applied to all goods, would be a step in this direction. In his opinion, it would prevent the kind of economic and commercial involvement that forced American entry into the World War in 1917.

Under the legal revision urged by Mr. Baruch, there would be no discrimination as between belligerents. Any nation with the money would be enabled to purchase American commodities, including the implements of war, on a fair and equitable basis provided only that they paid for them in cash and carried them away on their own vessels.

The present plan of embargoing belligerents on the claim of aggression, according to Mr. Baruch, is a form of economic warfare that probably would lead this country into actual military strife.

It is to be hoped that, through consideration of this and other methods of assuring American non-participation, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will find it possible to devise a plan of action in line with rational isolationist theory.

The rank and file of the American people do not want war and would be largely unwilling to support another futile crusade on foreign soil. In so far as governmental regulations can be arranged in conformity with this popular attitude, they should be recast at the earliest possible moment.

These godfish gulping students seem to be majoring in the aquarium.

DOLL HELPS READERS

WHILE visiting in the Pingree Elementary School, Ogden, Utah, recently, I found a teacher who, with her children, still believes in fairies. The fairies center about a beautiful doll, Rosabelle. Miss Cleo Pierce, who is to Rosabelle what Bergen is to Charley McCarthy, wrote for me the following information:

"I purchased Rosabelle at the Doll House in Portland, Oregon, and intended to name her Kate Greenaway, just to keep her name fresh before the children, but the children changed that."

"For three years Rosabelle just stood on the library shelf and, so far as we know, nothing happened. It was a little boy who first discovered that Rosabelle existed. The children—the good ones and the bad ones—through the day and talked it over with the fairies at night, telling them to bring good dreams to the good children and bad dreams to the bad children."

Autograph Book

"Of all her treasures, Rosabelle is most fond of her little raincoat autograph book. Famous people from all over the country have written many lovely things in it. Next is her book of wishes written by the children. . . .

"During the nine years that Rosabelle has lived in the school library, aside from her wonderful life of adventure with the fairies, she has served as a contact medium for much creative work among the children who write her letters and poems with wishes based upon some favorite item in a choice story."

Rosabelle has taken imaginary trips by airplane to the west coast and to Boston. The children read letters to Rosabelle or about Rosabelle from eminent people. For example, as I walked into that library of the Ogden school, the fourth, fifth and sixth grade children were crowded about Miss Pierce. One child was reading aloud a real letter from the mayor of that city to the Doll Collectors of Boston, where Rosabelle was about to go on an imaginary trip.

Wishes To Her

Notice of the literary references in the samples below from the book of wishes:

"Dear Rosabelle: On the 40 pieces of gold that the blue-haired fairy gave to Pinocchio I make a wish—May the fairies hover over you and make all your dreams come true.—Catherine Faye Olney."

"Dear Rosabelle: In the light footsteps of the Cat That Went to Heaven I make my wish—May your loveliness never fade away.—Marjorie Stewart."

Thanks to Doll Rosabelle, and that teacher who still believes in fairies, her children read with a driving purpose and have their imagination kept alive and cultivated—one of the finest samples of creative, motivated learning I have ever seen.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE GREEK OF IT

In ancient Greece womanhood was not thought of highly. Women were considered the flowers of the land, but their intellectual attainments were thought to be nil.

Pericles, the famous Greek statesman and orator, who barely avoided suicide because of his political failure in a crisis, had married Aspasia, one of the most brilliant women of all time. She was his mental equal; all Pericles' public speeches were rehearsed to her.

Socrates, who was a friend of both, accidentally gave out the opinion that Aspasia had written the ode delivered by Pericles upon the occasion of his eulogy on the Athenian dead.

Thereafter, enemies of Pericles commented upon his wife's help in a caustic vein, and one time, when Aspasia had failed to attend a brilliant social affair, one of his political foes explained her absence by saying:

"Aspasia has no time for society; she is busy writing a new speech for her lord."

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Sen. Burton K. Wheeler says those who lead Great Britain and France to expect aid from America in another war are doing them a disservice.

"They are misleading England and France because the United States will not enter another war to be fought on foreign soil."

NEW YORK—Ludwig Marcuse, exiled German biographer, finds England and France have at last grasped Germany's real intentions.

"London and Paris now understand very well that a war must end in either the destruction of Hitler and Mussolini, or of civilization and that any compromise at this time would be merely a postponement of the inevitable."

VATICAN CITY—Pope Pius XII sees a dim outlook for peace.

There can be no peace if among nations there is a lack of mutual understanding which alone can encourage peoples along the ways of mutual progress."

CHICAGO—Dr. Thomas Mann takes an optimistic outlook on the foreign situation.

"Hitler is a blackmailer. He wants conquests but he wants them without a fight. England has called his bluff. So there is nothing for him to do but back down."

A bill to prohibit macing has been passed in Harrisburg. This means that politicians and others who think they are big shots cannot use a club on those whom they want to do things their way—voting their way for instance. That law should be enforced to the letter.

Japan has increased buying scrap rubber in the country. This ought to clean up some of the unsightly tire yards we see most every where in this country.

You get your city and school tax notices about a month before they should be paid. This gives some time in which to raise the money. Also time to cuss a lot.

Committee Chairs Lure Solons Congressmen Seek Important Ones Chairmanships Add To Influence

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

Generally speaking, senators and representatives like to be members of important committees. It makes them influential in shaping legislation. They're able to get things for their home folks, which naturally helps them on election days. There also is publicity in it for them. It gives them an appearance of prominence, which likewise is a political asset; their constituencies are proud of them. Take Senator William E. Borah, for example. He's a member of the upper congressional chamber's Foreign Relations Committee. That's a key group just now, on account of the disturbed state of international affairs. The Idaho solon used to be chairman. He isn't today, because he calls himself a Republican (really he's an independent), the Republicans are in a minority and all the chairmen are majority-lies. But, anyway, Borah established his reputation as foreign relations chairman. I don't say he wouldn't have established it on his individual merits even without his chairmanship, but that certainly was very useful to him. Senator Key Pittman is chairman now, so that makes him extra-consequential—maybe more so than he is personally entitled to be.

Oh, a good committee membership is valuable, but a first class chairmanship? That's the acme. Parenthetically: Some committees are not worth much. Illustratively, you ever heard of the committee on audit and control of the contingent expenses of the Senate or the House of Representatives, or enrolled bills in either house, or the joint committee on printing? I'm speaking of the vital committees.

The hum-dinger of the entire outfit is the representatives' rule committee. The Senate has a rules committee, too, but the Senate's rules are not as strict as those in the lower chamber. The senatorial body can overrule its rules committee quite easily. Consequently it isn't so dictatorial. It can't be. The House committee, however, decides whether or not proposed pieces of legislation can be considered at all. By refusing to give a bill right-of-way it usually can prevent it from being voted on. This committee likewise can be overruled by enough members of the whole house, but it's a mighty difficult, long-drawn-out process.

In short, it's recognized that the representatives virtually are bossed by a triumvirate consisting of the speaker, the majority leader and the rules committee chairman.

Until the last congressional election John O'Connor of New York City was chairman. He was (and is) an anti-New Dealer and tied up New Deal policies in the worst possible way. That's why the New Deal was so determined to purge him—and succeeded in doing it. By right of seniority (which doesn't necessarily prevail but almost invariably does) Adolph J. Sabath of Chicago graduated into the chairmanship. He's a loyal New Dealer, so everything is lovely—from the New Dealers' standpoint.

Demand Is Heavy There are a dozen or fifteen chairmanships in each house in the capitol. Believe me members covet them. Seniority gravitates them into such positions.

If a lawmaker is beaten at the polls, he may be re-elected later, but he's lost his seniority status. For example, the late Senator James W. Thompson of Michigan, elected as a Republican, was invited to run again as a Democrat. As a Democrat, he thought he might win, but if he did, he said, he'd come in as a junior Democrat, rather than as a senior committee Republican. He'd rather drop out altogether, he told me. He said he was a dandy committee man, but a poor debater in an open forum.

I will not name them. They are much too celebrated—one a reading playwright nowadays, the other a brilliant and successful novelist, short-story writer and author of innumerable magazine articles on current affairs. But they served time together on a famous old morning newspaper which perished long ago.

And one evening the daily editor, handing out the last of his batch of assignments before taking the 5:15 to Montclair, called one of the pair to his desk and handed him an assignment to "cover" a sketch by Upton Sinclair—a condensed version of "The Jungle" as I recall.

The other young gentleman was taking that evening off, and was as a loss as to how to put in his leisure hours. So, being good, he covered the assignment together—each in formal evening dress, top-hat, tails, white tie and all the rest; the other in workaday garments. I recall very vividly their return to the newspaper office, each very tired, and in a pleasurable glow, and how the young gentleman in the top hat said to his typewriter and com-monenced a play review which was remembered along Park Row for many a day and always to shouts of laughter. For Top Hat wrote the first paragraph, then paused for inspiration. Whereupon his partner calmly took over the silk hat and wrote Paragraph 2. And so it went, each in turn, paragraph by paragraph, as the silk hat passed from flushed brow to flushed brow, for two-thirds of a column until the piece went along by the hand of a copywriter named Jimmy Cagney, to the desk of a night city editor who was the best copy-reader and headline writer who ever lived. The newsman's play review which was remembered along Park Row for many a day and always to shouts of laughter.

J. H. Shafer to H. L. Shafer, Union township, $8,000.

One of the branches of the United States government that you hear little of, but which is on the job continually is the Naturalization and Immigration bureau. About twice a year the naturalization examinees come to New Castle to examine applicants for citizenship and then occasionally an examiner of the immigration department comes here to check.

One of the immigration men was in the court house Monday examining people who were endeavoring to legalize their entry into the United States.

If an immigrant arrived between 1921 and 1924, illegally, he is not subject to deportation but neither can he get citizenship papers. After 1924 he had to come into the country legally in order to stay here and to get citizenship papers.

For a number of reasons the names of the immigration men are not used. The gentleman in the court house Monday has been in service many years and has had a lot of experience. "If a lot of native born Americans could only know the desperation of a lot of people in Europe today, or if they knew what chances they take to get to this country, our own people would value their citizenship more."

The sheriff's residence has received its first coat of white paint and in the dusk it stands out like a ghost against the sombre color of the court house. With good weather the court house will have its first coat on this week.

During the past week, 30 Democrats changed to the Republican fold. 1 Republican turned Democrat, 15 new voters registered Republican and 3 new voters registered Democrat.

Older Group Making Plans To Organize Junior Collectors' Club Here

Plans for the meeting of the Lawrence County Philatelic society on Wednesday evening in the Guerard building, North Mill street, have been completed. The meeting, scheduled for 8 o'clock, is open to all stamp collectors from the local district.

Coal Deadlock May Result In Fuel Shortage

By WILLIAM THEIS
International News Service Staff Correspondent
PITTSBURGH, April 11.—Industrial Pittsburgh, "workshop of the world," will find itself caught short on its major fuel if the current bituminous coal wage negotiations remain deadlocked another fortnight, survey by International News Service indicated today.

Best available estimates were that with one week of fruitless conferences between operators and miners already past, the entire Appalachian field has less than 25,000,000 tons of soft coal above ground, but that in Western Pennsylvania:

1—Industrial plants have a scant 10-day supply.

2—Railroad stocks should last two weeks.

3—Utilities—"in fair shape"—have enough coal for 30 days.

After another fortnight, the pinch now being felt by the 120,000 Pennsylvania miners left idle by the failure to agree on a new contract, will diminish through unemployment compensation benefits. Similar payments were promised here to be in the offing in the other four states of the Appalachian field—West Virginia, Ohio, Michigan and Eastern Kentucky.

It was the first plane fatality of the year in and around San Diego. The fleet's main air base. The fleet, however, had been on the east coast much of the time since January 1. Last year at this time, when the fighting craft were on the west coast, the total fatalities stood at 22. During 1938 fleet plane crashes claimed 40 victims on this coast, with 22 more being killed in the Hawaiian Islands.

Exchange Club Hears Address By J. P. Boyles

Weekly Dinner Meeting Held In The Castleton, Monday Evening

New Castle Exchange club members learned a few important details about the pottery industry, Monday evening, in The Castleton, when Jack Boyles, a foreman at the Shenango Pottery company, addressed the group.

Boyles cited the fact that the pottery industry is the oldest in the world and that it is not as highly mechanized as some of the other industries. He also stated that about 80 per cent of expenses connected with the manufacturing of pottery goes towards labor. His talk was most educational. Boyles displayed samples of pottery made in the local plant.

The next meeting will be held on Monday evening, April 18, in The Castleton, starting at 5:45 o'clock.

Seek Junior Chamber Aid In Move To Open New Butler Hospital

Butler's Chamber of Commerce seeks the support of the New Castle Junior Chamber of Commerce in its efforts to have Governor Arthur H. James open the new state tuberculosis sanitarium near Butler.

That became known last night when President Presley N. Jones appointed Dr. John A. Meehan, Charles W. Wolfe and Paul Cuba, junior chamber members, as a committee to investigate the merits of both sides of the argument before taking action.

Junior chamber representatives, promoting a drive to beautify the city, are expected to appear soon before various civic clubs to tell the organization's "city beautification" program. Speakers will include Joseph R. Hensley, Elmer D. O'Neill, Joe Craig, L. J. Foster, H. Gill Brown and McFall.

At the junior chamber meeting in The Castleton, the members last night heard Mr. Hensley as the principal speaker. Hensley, manager of the state's employment office here, outlined the work of the office.

Bee 'Language' Discovered By Coast Professor

(International News Service)
SACRAMENTO, Cal.—Now we have talking bees—although they are unable to speak in a tone audible as even a whisper.

In fact, bees have always "talked", but the discovery was made only recently.

Credit for this startling revelation went to Dr. J. E. Eckert, assistant professor of entomology at the University of California College of Agriculture.

"By their movements," the scientist said, "bees can direct other bees of the hive to the location of newly discovered sources of honey supply. This is a method of communication—a manner of talking. It is the bees' language."

THE NEWS, BY MAIL, 1 YEAR, $5.

DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR wouldn't you prefer a LASALLE?

DOLLAR FOR DOLLAR INVESTED—most people would surely prefer a car built by Cadillac. Instinctively, they would expect to get more for their money. Yet it is very easy to pay the price of a LaSalle—and still not get a LaSalle. Five different manufacturers, for instance, build Sedans which sell for more than the LaSalle. If you pay above a thousand dollars, you ought to get a LaSalle—and enjoy all the priceless advantages of a Cadillac-built car. How about a demonstration—today?

POSSIBLE COMPLICATIONS MAKE MEASLES A DIS- EASE TO BE FEARED

In tracing the course of an attack of measles yesterday, we had progressed to the point where the rash had spread over the whole body.

This spreading of the rash is accompanied by a marked rise in temperature, and the child becomes miserable and irritable. His eyes become reddened and so sore that he cannot look at light. This is the acute stage of the disease; it lasts for three or four days and then the temperature begins to fall. The rash fades slowly until about the sixth day, when it disappears. The youngster usually makes a rapid recovery from his illness, and in about three or four more days is up and around again. Quite often he is able to return to school in a week. The infectious stages of the disease are over when the rash disappears.

The importance of measles isn't just that it makes the child feel miserable for a week or so, but because of complications that may follow the disease. Bronchitis is the most frequent complication in my experience. In fact, when a baby gets measles, I have found that it almost invariably has bronchitis too. Every now and then a doctor runs across a case where this pneumonia has led to pneumonia.

When you find this complication, then you are in for trouble. Many small children who develop pneumonia in this way succumb to the attack; those who recover are often left with lungs and chests permanently affected and weakened.

There are many children who have fought off tuberculosis and have been left with a healed tuberculous lesion in their lungs. These children are liable to develop an acute tuberculous infection as a complication of the measles.

German measles is quite different from the kind we have been discussing. For the most part it is a disease that affects older children, occurring more frequently in children over the age of five years. Most common during the late spring and summer, it has an incubation period of fifteen to twenty days. Quite often, in German measles, the rash will appear without the forerunning head cold. Frequently the first symptom of German measles is the rash itself, quite often accompanied by some enlargement of the glands of the neck.

In this ailment, the rash isn't accompanied by any degree of fever. In fact, the child often feels so well that you have a difficult time keeping him in bed. German measles is practically never followed by complications, as is the case with ordinary measles, and its chief claim to fame is the fact that it is sometimes mistaken for the more serious type.

However, a child can, and often does, have two attacks of measles in his lifetime: one attack of the regular kind; the other, German measles. It is rare, however, that we run across children who have more than these two attacks. When it does happen, it is because the immunity which the patient derived from the first attack wasn't sufficient to last the rest of his life.

HARVARD STUDENT CATALOGUE SHOWS PLAY ON NAMES

CAMBRIDGE, Mass.—Au. Ege. Oka, three Lins and a Yeh. Landsman, Seamon, Highman, Lowman. No—not a college cheer but the 1938-39 Harvard University catalogue. Longest, name in the catalogue which listed the names of 8583 students, was a two-way tie between Pappadopolou and Pappastegion.

Continuing the recent trend, the Cohens outnumber the Kellys by better than a 9 to 1 margin. Cohens had 24 listings against their rivals seven.

Robert Williams Manners Pickwood Gammons was holder of the longest series of names.

Smiths topped the Jones, 65 to 32. Every phase of human endeavor was found in the various names recorded in the catalogue. Three Farmers, eight Hills, one Dale, two Flowers and six Fields, twelve Grays, six Greens and 35 Browns.

Royalty was headed by 11 Kings, one Queen and three Princes.

There are six Daves and three Knights in the listings.

Aaron is the first name in the catalogue and Zylstra is the last.

FRENCH 'POILUS' GET BREAK FROM CRISIS OF 1938

(International News Service)
PARIS—The French "Poilus" received good news as the result of the September crisis of 1938. Their short-term service when France mobilized her forces for what appeared to be certain war, will be deducted from their compulsory length of military service.

The rule is also good for reserve officers but is of no benefit to reservists who were actually serving one of their three terms of military enlistment when France mobilized. Every able male must serve two years with the army, but the time may be served in three periods between the ages of 18 and 25. Thus, each reservist mobilized during "one period" and may now, if he chooses, wait several years before serving another.

LONDON FATHERS INVENT GAS-PROOF BABY CARRIAGE

(International News Service)
LONDON—With the idea of protecting their children from gas attack during wartime, two fathers have invented a gas-proof baby carriage.

They claim it solves the problem of protection of babies in the event of air raids.

One pull of the lever converts the ordinary peace-time baby carriage into a gas-proof shelter—complete with air pumps and filtering apparatus.

Nine-month old Beryl Freed was the inspiration of the invention.

Edward Freed, her father, was determined to assure her safety during wartime.

With his brother, K. L. F. Freed, who also has a young child, he built a baby carriage consisting of an outer and inner case.

On the first warning of danger a lever is pulled and the child lying in the inner casing is immediately within a metal gasproof cylinder.

First Aid Meet Wednesday Night

Boy Scouts Ready For Big District Event At George Washington School

Troop and judge registrations were closed Monday night at the local Boy Scout office for the New Castle district first aid meet, to be held Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the George Washington Junior high school building.

All of the troops in the New Castle district were eligible to enter teams in the contest, and each troop was to select its own judges for the events.

This first aid meet is one of the biggest events of the scouting season, and is looked forward to by many scouts for several months. Everything pertaining to the contests is kept a complete secret until time for that certain event.

In judging the work of the scouts, the latest American Red Cross handbook will be used for authority.

According to the scout office, it is expected that this will be one of the largest indoor first aid meets held for sometime in this district and they expect many of the district troops to have one or more teams entered in competition.

Full information as to equipment required, rules and other detail material, may be secured from the office in the Greer building.

A new Pullman model is designed to permit 75 persons at a time to see movies.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisons out of the blood. Most people pass about 2 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or painful passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisons waste matter stay in the blood. These poisons may start nagging headaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisons waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Baseball and softball teams in the Seventh Ward are anxiously awaiting their first game. Few teams have yet started playing, most of them are now in the formation period.

First continued bit of sunshine and warm weather will bring the flowers in the Liberty street park into bloom. The flowers are now full green, and several inches above the ground.

Habitual park visitors are closely watching for the return of the green benches to the Liberty street park. It would appear that the concrete benches, now in place, are too hard, for they are never occupied.

Wage-Hour Law Revision Plans May Be Dropped

(Copyright, 1939)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, April 11.—Proposed revision of the Wage-Hour law may be dropped as a result of developing opposition, Chairman Mary T. Norton of the house labor committee, said today.

In spite of recommendations of Administrator Elmer F. Andrews for modification of the act, a bitter fight has developed over many proposed changes.

"If there is too much opposition, we'll simply drop the whole thing," said Mrs. Norton. "We are not going to open up and cut the heart out of this bill."

"The trouble is that there is so much selfishness. We proposed to relieve hardship cases, but many others want to serve their own selfish interests."

The proposed amendments would take "white collar" employees making $2,400 a year or more, out of the hours provisions, exempt small telephone exchanges and both liberalize and strengthen provisions affecting the canning industry.

Tommy Tucker's Orchestra Will Play For Ball

Nationally Known Orchestra
Secured For Elks 19th Charity Dance On Friday

TOMMY TUCKER

ELLWOOD CITY, April 11.—Tick, tick, tick. "It's Tommy Tucker Time" will greet the ears of dancers on Friday night at the Elks lodge 19th annual Easter charity ball as this nationally known maestro and his orchestra sound their unusual identifying theme.

Dance devotees accustomed to driving many miles and paying a big tariff to swing the light fantastic to the strains of a widely known orchestra will have the order reversed, in keeping with the Elks theme of providing only the highest class entertainment for their social activities.

Tommy got his first big break when he and his tooters became guest artists on the early Lucky Strike broadcasts with Walter Winchell extolling their praise.

With each member a versatile musician as well as an outstanding entertainer, the orchestra has perhaps the largest assortment of instruments of any organization of its size with each instrument being used with the greatest of skill in blending harmonious rhythm.

Tucker has played many important engagements, including the Miami hotel, Hotel Statler, Cleveland; Wardman Park hotel, Washington; Casino Gardens, California; El Patio, San Francisco, and Steel Pier, Atlantic City. The Tommy Tucker orchestra is heard over the N. B. C. and C. B. S. networks.

For 29 weeks they played with the George Jessel and Norma Talmadge radio show, in "Thirty Minutes in Hollywood," working with an outstanding parade of radio and movie stars.—Adv.

Interesting History Of Elks Easter Balls

This Year's Easter Classic To Be Held On Friday Night
At Ball Room

ELLWOOD CITY, April 11.—Foremost among many social activities of the Ellwood City Elks lodge each year is the Easter charity ball, which has come to be recognized as the dance of the season locally and which will be held on Friday night.

In 1921, three years after the granting of the lodge charter, the first of these series of dances was held under the direction of P. J. McCarthy and James P. McDermott. This first attempt was well attended and encouraged the pioneers to make it a yearly event.

Each succeeding year a greater throng turned out with the result that larger sums were expended for music and decorations. In fact the later phase of the affair could be counted on to arouse an interest rivaling that accorded the orchestra.

Many new and novel features have been presented by local and outside decorators in their efforts to create a splendid and harmonious setting that dance lovers have enjoyed and of course the new gowns always added greatly to the radiant setting.

It has been the custom for the chairman of the entertainment committee from the entire membership to handle this affair each year at this time. Chairmen who have directed the arrangements for highly successful Easter dances in the past are: A. C. Miller, Dr. F. H. Swanson, A. L. Gregory, T. C. McDermott, W. P. McCarthy, G. W. Fossnaught, L. Bruce Myers, J. P. Smith, and J. L. Steckman.

Prior to the completion of the lodge's new ball room in 1936 the affairs were held at the Shelby auditorium, and many regular patrons to this day maintain that the elaborate held in 1927 under the direction of A. L. "Dutch" Gregory topped them all.

Joe Wilkowsky, who is in charge of last year's dance is again at the helm and is being rendered able assistance by Phil Blandine who as co-chairman will help for the first time in directing an Easter classic on Friday night.

Bergdoll Will Sail Next Week, To Finish Term

Famous Millionaire Draft Dodger Was Sentenced To Five Years When He Flew

HAS BEEN IN GERMAN EXILE

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 11.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, America's most notorious draft dodger during the World War, will sail from Germany next week to surrender to United States military authorities and complete a five-year prison sentence imposed before his escape in 1919.

Bergdoll's plan to give himself up was revealed by his wife when she returned with four of their five children from Germany Monday on the Hamburg-American liner St. Louis.

After nearly 20 years as a fugitive, Bergdoll's decision to surrender comes after his attempt to make "a deal" with military authorities for leniency failed, and with war clouds again hanging over his head.

Made Many Pleas
Mrs. Bergdoll, whom he married during his exile in Germany, also has made several ineffectual pleas to the government in an effort to gain permission for her husband to return to the country he refused to fight for without having to finish his prison sentence.

Bergdoll made a spectacular escape shortly after he had been sentenced as a draft dodger. Aided by hired bodyguards and his immense fortune, he fled to Germany. A bizarre attempt to "kidnap" him by several members of the A. E. F. failed, after they launched their coup in Germany. The idea was to smuggle Bergdoll out of Europe and bring him back to face a military tribunal.

More babies are born in taxicabs in New York City than anywhere else in the world.

AROUND CITY HALL

Judging from remarks during councilmanic meeting in city hall yesterday, city fathers will not call a meeting, but others may, for the purpose of discussing the pro and con of the proposed Ohio river and Lake Erie canal. In withdrawing an endorsement of the proposed canal, the council expressed the opinion they had acted hastily and without having been able to consider all the problems concerned, because of the lack of information concerning all of the particulars concerning the water-stretch when the resolution was passed.

City police officials lost no time Saturday morning sending patrolmen to advantageous corners when the Easter parade of shoppers augmented auto vehicular traffic being detoured through the city because of the closing of Route 19, Portersville to Dixie Inn. Traffic will continue to increase here because of fairs in New York and San Francisco. Traffic Commissioner Thomas Jones is preparing plans to send it through the city as fast as possible.

Council has authorized Mayor Charles E. McGrath to attend a gasoline fund meeting in Harrisburg on Wednesday because of the city's desire to secure some of the money for highway improvements here. It will be noticed that the city police department has been upon its toes recently having captured six persons reportedly having either attempted to or burglarized persons.

SHARON MAN IS GIVEN HONOR FOR FRENCH FUND GIFT

(International News Service)
PARIS—The name of an American, Frank H. Buhl and an American town, Sharon, Pa., were permanently inscribed in French life today following completion of the Buhl-Daladier Educational Fund for sons of army officers who choose specialized studies.

American Ambassador William C. Bullitt turned over to Prime Minister Daladier a balance of 325,000 francs ($9,750) remaining from the French portion of the $2,000,000 bequest of the late Mr. Buhl, a native of Sharon. The total French fund was for relief and reconstruction work in France and Belgium but the balance was used to create the special educational fund, the interest of which annually will be turned over to exceptional students (sons of army officers) who wish to specialize their studies.

"Sluggish, you have traumatic encephalopathy!"

"Huh, Doc, dat's bad, huh." It is very bad, and better known as being punch-drunk.

Most prize fighters receive countless blows on the head. These, in time, cause innumerable tiny brain hemorrhages.

Sixty per cent of professional boxers develop definite symptoms. Five per cent develop serious punch-drunkness.

Clever boxers are less likely to become punch-drunk. Maulers, who slug away, unprotected, suffer most.

They usually end up as sparring partners for youngsters. Some famous fighters have become mentally deranged.

Few other popular athletics involve such risk.

Rubin Breaks Record In Knocking Out Foe

Drops Armado In First With Blow One Second After Bell

EVERY BATTLE ENDS IN "KAYO"

What is believed to have been a pugilistic record was scored in the Arena last night when Mickey Rubin, hard-punching light-heavyweight of this city, dropped Manny Armado of Youngstown with the first punch and Armado was counted out.

It was a hard left hook to the jaw that felled the Ohioan and it was delivered within a second from the time Timekeeper Carl Cialella sounded the bell. With the clang of the gong Rubin leaped across the ring, socked Armado devastatingly and the bout was over.

They had received instructions from Referee McMahon to "shake hands now and come out fighting". And Rubin did so. His blow to the jaw not only was one of the cleanest left hooks landed in the Arena ring but also was one of the hardest.

At first the crowd scarcely realized what had happened. But, as they saw the quivering form of the Youngstown warrior upon the resinc-covered canvas, the man-pack unloosed a roar. McMahon tolled off the fatal 10 seconds.

Behind the picture of the quick victory was a story. It had been told to Rubin that his manager, Jimmie Dime, was ill and that Dime had sent word: "Do what you have been taught to do; turn in a victory for me." Obviously Rubin listened to the plea to Armado's misfortune.

However, Rubin's record knockout was not the only feature of the fight show. Every battle ended in a knockout. This was the first time in pugilistic history of the city that each scrap ended with the referee tolling off 10 seconds in every battle.

Insofar as the Ohio vs Pennsylvania angle was concerned, Pa New took the honors seven to one. The only fight lost was the knocking out of the colored fighter, Hal Brooks.

George Stovich of Youngstown turned in a technical knockout over Brooks in the second.

Reale Wins By Kayo
In one of the eight battles Jack Matthews, Wampun, kayowed Chuck Swatvik of West Pittsburg in the second round. Originally Swatvik had been doctored to oppose Buck Chambers. However, Spanish influenza prevented Buck from fighting.

It resulted in Matthews substituting and beating Swatvik.

Frankie Moran, the flashy, sporty featherweight, didn't fool around long with George Kovach of Youngstown. He dropped Kovach twice then flattened him in the first and Chuck Arkett, West Pittsburg, wrote him with his boxing gloves for Mickey McCoy of Youngstown in the initial round.

Billy Reale made his return to the ring something of a sensation from the way he battered Tommy Pipher of Youngstown. Pipher failed to last the round with the aggressive, severe-looking plow-boy from Princeton.

Johnny Regal of Butler, 160, looked like the berries. It took him only two stanzas to stand Mike Sandino of Youngstown upon his ears. It was his second fight and the fans want to see more of the Butler Irishman.

Father McDonough of St. Columbus church, Youngstown, was introduced. He is sponsoring an amateur boxing show for the aid of the needy Thursday evening. New Castle fans promised to turn out and aid the promotion.

On the card will be the record-creating Rubin, the jaw-shocking Moran and other local lads who, last night, proved themselves devastating punchers in battles against the Ohioans.

The results of the bouts last night were:
First bout—Baby Retardo, Ellwood City, kayowed Mickey O'Day, Youngstown, O., in third round; weight, 112 pounds.
Second bout—Jack Matthews of Wampun kayowed Chuck Swatvik of New Castle in second round; weight, 165 pounds.

Third bout—John Regal of Butler kayowed Mike Sandino of Youngstown in second round; weight, 160 pounds.
Fourth bout—George Stovich of Youngstown scored technical kayo over Hal Brooks of New Castle in second round; weight, 126 pounds.

Fifth bout—Chuck Arkett of New Castle kayowed Mickey McCoy of Youngstown in first round; weight, 135 pounds.
Sixth bout—Billy Reale of New Castle kayowed Tommy Pipher of Youngstown in first round; weight, 160 pounds.
Seventh bout—Frankie Moran of New Castle kayowed George Kovach of Campbell, O., in first round; weight, 126 pounds.

Eighth bout—Mickey Rubin of New Castle kayowed Manny Armado of Youngstown in first round, light-heavyweight class.

Believe Baer Is Too Strong For Young Lou Nova

Former Champion Should Win From Nova Handily; Winner Gets Crack At Louis

By LAWTON CARVER International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 11.—Despite the fact that old man Baer is past his pugilistic prime and young Lou Nova is a year or so short of his peak, the encounter on June 1 between the veteran former champion and the green young aspirant to the title is going to stir up arguments and wagering on a wholesale basis, according to the first hint on the proposition as offered today. Briefly the betting odds have opened at 9 to 10 and take your choice.

I don't think it makes any sense either. Baer should be 7 to 5 any how and probably will be at least that at the ringside. In the meantime, everybody around here wants to take a look at him before going overboard.

Starts For Des Moines
When they will get this chance for first hand observation of the reformed playboy is problematical. Mr. Bill Farnsworth, under-secretary of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, revealed in a Communique today that the aging but still magnificent screwball is headed from Chicago to New York via Des Moines, which is in the opposite direction.

"He's refereeing in Des Moines, or something," Mr. Farnsworth said. "but he will be here within 48 hours—I hope." Baer has been on his way to New York for something like 10 days now, but has approached no nearer than Chicago.

Baseball School For Youngsters In Seventh Ward

Mike Orlando, manager of the Columbus A. A. baseball team of Mahoningtown, will inaugurate a baseball school for youngsters starting on May 1 and ending on May 7, at the E. & A. field.

All that the boys need to have will be gloves and shoes, no uniforms will be required. All of the fundamentals of baseball will be taught the boys ranging in age from 10 to 20.

A meeting of the Columbus club was held last night and plans made for the spaghetti supper to be given the members of the team at the Columbus hall on Sunday night, April 30. The Columbus team will have a wealth of reserve material this summer.

Manager Orlando believes that this will be the Columbus year in the City league and that the reign of the "Gas House" gang from West Pittsburg is at an end. Orlando is banking on his pitching ace "Mack" Rainey, to put the Seventh Wardians in the thick of the league pennant race.

Cubs Hope That Bartell, Galan Will Be Ready

Neither Of These Two Stars May Be In Opening Line-up Next Monday

GLEESON, MESNER TO GET CHANCE

By PAUL R. ALLERUP International News Service Sports Writer

CHICAGO, April 11.—Encouraging reports on the Club's two most important hospital cases and the work of two hot rookies thus far this spring have Chicago Cub fans thinking today that Mr. Broadway Jack Doyle is not much off base with his 2 to 1 odds on Bruins to repeat this year in the National league pennant race.

Although the bleacher boys have been worrying a bit about shortstop Dick Bartell and outfielder Augie Galan, both in a Chicago hospital with leg troubles, Dr. John F. Davis, Cub physician, cleared the air a lot when he announced last night that both ballplayers show signs of early improvement.

May Not Be Ready

Bartell is being treated for a swollen ankle result of an old hurt which began acting up after the ex-New York Giant got a little too enthusiastic in spring training. Galan nurses a swollen knee which he wrongly feared was due to a torn cartilage—this injury having been suffered last midseason. But Doc Davis says both men are being given heat treatment and with rest for a couple of weeks should be as good as new.

The doctor has not gone so far as to say either of the ballplayers will be ready for the season opener April 18, but even if they are not, there appears to be a pair of newcomers in Steve Mesner and Jim "Gee" Gleeson ready to step in and gladden the heart of Manager Gabby Hartnett.

Mesner has been playing the shortstop position in the spring games in such a fashion as to prove himself one of the year's most promising youngsters. His hitting and fielding leave little to be desired. Mesner was introduced last year as a 20-year old coast league third sacker with plenty on the ball, and with Indianapolis in the American association in 1938 he hit .331 in 127 games at the hot corner.

Gleeson Good Hitter
Gleeson boasts an even better minor league record, which he shows signs of being ready to duplicate with the Cubs. Gee Gee—his nickname dates from his days at old Rockhurst College, Kansas City, his home town—was a big noise with the Newark Bears in the international in '37 and '38. His mighty bat figured importantly in the Bear's triumphs in their league. He led the international league with doubles both years, his 50 last year setting a record for Newark players. To his doubles in 1938 Gleeson added 16 homers and seven triples.

A winning player since his start with champion Zanesville in 1933, Gleeson in his six years has played with four pennant winning teams and two second place clubs.

There's a note of cheer, too, from another famous Cub cripple—Dizzy Dean. The Dizzy one pitched his first two innings of the year Sunday and although he hadn't his zip of his Cardinal days, he showed strength and was so pleased with his performance he promptly predicted 20 wins for himself this year.

PRACTICE TODAY
Miller Midgets will practice softball at 5:30 today on the Clifton Flats field. Players asked to report to Manager "Gabby" Kendra are: Pete Klamut, Eddie Grybo, Mike and Joe Chabak, Lefty Chrobak, Ted Kirk, Steve Hudak, John Solomon, Vic Owoc, Joe Gennock, "Dropball" Boron, "Swifty" Smith and any other softball player who wants to try out for the team.

Rambling Around World Of Sports

Along the main stem today we see

Louis B. MacAnaney, local ace baseball critic, telling the boys that the St. Louis Cardinals may be the National league surprise, although he figures Cincinnati has what it takes. As for the other loop, nothing by the Yankees, says L. B.

On the opposite side of the street, Tom McMahon, former heavyweight great, telling the one about Sam Langford who was weighing in for a clash in London. An argument arose regarding the referee. Langford, who had been the most silent man in the room, stepped in, saying: "I have my own referee with me, pointing to his powerful right arm." Pat Kearns, among the localites who will compete in the A. B. C. next month, tells us that the New Castle tenpin demolishers are all set. Incidentally, the local group performs during the last two days of the tournament.

Baseball jottings. Dodger doings: Cletus Poffenberger, who was bounced out of the Detroit Tiger camp into the laps of the Dodgers, means the addition of another screwball to the Flatbush team.

The St. Louis Cardinals have the greatest two-man offensive combination in the National in "Ducky" Medwick and Johnny Mize. Last season, the slugging Redbirds together batted in 224 runs besides tapping out 48 homers. The club physician is such an important man nowadays that scribes are looking into the records of various medicines on major league clubs before picking the 39 winners. With an abundance of ailing arms, aching tendons, stiff knees, crooked elbows and what not, the medico is easily the most important gent on a club. Banner winners should vote a full share of the world series out to the M. D.

Mere baseball stuff. The official signing of Paul Wanner and Don Heffner finally pulls down the curtain on the hold-out season. Last year, Joe DiMaggio staged his own sit-down strike until the season was a couple of weeks old. Foreign correspondents say the Boston Bees is the laziest club in the majors. George Case of the Senators and George Myatt of the Giants are considered two of the fastest men in the big show. Ossie Vitt, pilot of Cleveland Indians, probably has the toughest assignment in the baseball world. His job is to keep pace among the fastest gang of screwballers ever assembled under the Indians' tent. Nomination for the

AGED SADDLE MAKER

(International News Service)

MILES CITY, Mont.—Fred W. Kettler, 82, is still making saddles in Miles City, Mont. Since 1873, when he as a lad of 16 he worked as an apprentice in the Jacob Strauss saddle shop in St. Louis, Kettler has piled his trade.

Through the hectic days of the open range when cowpokes ordered $40 saddles, though the present years of modern rodeo and motion pictures when contestants and film stars order decorated equipment costing hundreds of dollars, Kettler has turned out saddles of all descriptions.

The age of an antique piano is best determined by the legs. The earliest pianos had four slender legs similar to those of the spinet or harpsichord.

Foreign Stock Markets Suffer Decline In Re-opening Session After Easter

By LESLIE GOULD

International News Service

NEW YORK, April 11.—The stock market ran into renewed selling today, which wiped out yesterday's technical rally of 1 to more than 5 points. Du Pont slumped 6 points.

Trading was slow at the start, when the list displayed a somewhat irregular appearance, but the pace was stepped up as the list weakened later.

Reopening of the major foreign security markets after the four-day Easter holiday, found London, Paris and Amsterdam suffering all-round declines. Forward discounts for all alien currencies widened appreciably, reflecting the weakness that spot rates are prevented from showing by the tight control of various stabilization funds.

Selling was heaviest near the end of the second hour, when the ticker ran late for a time. All sections of the list were tumbled by the resumption of large-scale liquidation after the one-day respite yesterday.

Gun-Girl Captured by G-men

Estelle Mae Dickson (above) was arrested by G-men in Kansas City two days after her husband was shot to death while resisting arrest in St. Louis. She and her two-gun spouse, Benny Dickson, had been hunted by federal agents since last fall when they robbed two South Dakota banks and kidnaped two farmers while making their getaway.

David Niven Had Unusual Movie Career In Hollywood

By MILTON HARKER

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, April 11.—In this town where hat shops prosper because so many of their customers need a larger size, every month or two there is one actor whose head still fits the fedora under which he blew into Hollywood a little more than four years ago.

When he arrived in 1935 he was happy because a quaint California custom decreed that lettuce, potato chips, relish and a few other gastronomical do-dads be served with every ten-cent hamburger—it made the meal more filling, today he has a villa by the sea and could eat caviar with every meal if he liked caviar, which he doesn't.

The gentleman in question is David Niven, strapping Englishman who regards himself as the fantastically fortunate victim of a great deal of luck and is eternally grateful for the same.

The story always has been told around town that Niven became an actor purely by chance. As a matter of fact, he always wanted to be an actor, even when he was a junior officer in the British army ten years ago.

Once when he was on leave he played a bit in an English picture. He was one of a group of men standing up against a bar. Then he happened to meet Edmund Goulding, famous Hollywood director, in London. Goulding told him he'd make a good actor. So David went to a London studio and made a formal application. They took some photographs of him and told him they'd let him know later.

A couple of weeks passed and David was in barracks when he received word to report to the studio immediately. Elated, he secured leave and rushed to London, there to have his budding hopes dashed. The studio only wanted to tell him:

"Your tests were awful and we couldn't possibly use you."

Finally he came to California and got into the movies. His first role was in Goldwyn's "Barbary Coast." He was thrown out of a window of a notorious resort into a muddy street, where he laid until Miriam Hopkins, a donkey and 32 men had walked over him.

Then he went over to Paramount where he said, "Goodbye, My Dear," to Elissa Landi for a picture sequence.

Then Columbia engaged him to say "Hello My Dear" to Wendy Barrie in another picture.

Things went along like that until Ronald Colman, a fellow countryman, aided him in getting his first good part as his aide in Selznick's "Prisoner of Zenda." He's never had to worry since, with every studio making calls on Goldwyn for a loan of his services.

He went to England to play opposite Annabella in "Dinner At the Ritz."

SKELETON RATTLING TURNS OUT TO BE MEDICAL EXHIBIT

(International News Service)

NEW BALTIMORE, Mich.—Several small boys playing in a barn, came upon a skeleton hand sticking from a pile of old newspapers.

Quietly down enough to tell their story after running as far and as fast as possible, one said the hand had "fingernails painted red."

Another added "there were bits of flesh clinging to the bones."

Deputy sheriffs and state police hurried to the old barn. They found the skeleton. It had one arm, only a few ribs and was wrapped in 40 year old newspapers.

Barn owner John Hooker, then appeared to clear the mystery.

"These are the bones of a skeleton I had when I was studying medicine 40 years ago."

INVADING HORDES DEFY U. S.

Without the aid of armies or navies, the dandelion has managed to land on every part of the civilized world and possess the soil. It has even found its way into the famous World's Tonic. Says Lola Johnson, 603 W. Wayne St., Butler, Pa.: "My head used to get all stuffy and spots would float in front of my eyes. In the morning I was seldom able to eat breakfast and most half the day would be gone before I felt able to get around properly. But relief of constipation with World's Tonic took these resulting ailments away." Use World's Tonic for gastritis, salivary skin, fatigue and skin blemishes, when due to constipation. Used for many ailments by thousands of families for over twenty years. At Eckerd's, Paisley's and all other modern Drug Stores. (J 13)

Salima Machimba (above), ex-queen of the island of Mohilla, is organizing a union to safeguard the rights of ex-sovereigns in Europe. Salima turned her island, in the Indian Ocean, near Madagascar, over to the French Government when she married a gendarme, now lives in France.

"Keep Nose Out!"

Bernard M. Baruch, noted banker and wartime adviser to Woodrow Wilson, slacks his thirst as he testified before the senate foreign relations committee. He warned that use of economic methods to punish aggressor nations was a step on road to war, declared he favored arms sales on cash and carry basis.

Pepper Picks a Pip

One of the best-dressed men in the senate, Claude Pepper of Florida, makes quite a ritual of selecting his Spring bonnet. He selects a snappy felt model, but the number is too small for the Pepper head, or maybe it is the Pepper head which is too large for the little bonnet.

On Feb. 14, 1903, an act of the United States congress created a department of commerce and labor. Its head or secretary was made a member of the president's cabinet. In 1913 the department was divided by another act of congress into two departments—those of commerce and labor, with the secretary of each a cabinet member.

Alsace Seeking American Trade

Would Take Place Of Sudetenland In Exports To United States

By MERRILL MUELLER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS.—The French province of Alsace will seek to take the place of Sudetenland in the exportation of its products to America to form a more feasible balance of trade with the United States. It was learned today.

Closer economic cooperation on these lines is the direct result of the Alsatian Businessmen's Commission to America, headed by Henry Laufenburger who recently returned to his home leaving several members of the commission still at work in the states. "Americans," the professor declared on his return, "are tired of standardization and uniformity and in consequence the American market appears open to new articles of export."

"The New York World's Fair affords Alsatian industrialists and wine growers an excellent opportunity to contact American consumers."

Seek Better Trade Balance
"Alsace buys one fourth of all the cotton imported into France and most of it comes from the United States. We seek a better balance of trade."

"It would, therefore be natural for Alsace to increase the exportation of certain of its manufactured goods and wines in exchange."

Export circles in Washington and business leaders in New York have received the Alsatian plans with a great deal of interest, the professor added.

MASS BROUGHT TO AGED CHURCHGOER BY LOUDSPEAKER

(International News Service)
WINCHESTER.—After attending church regularly for 82 years at Clintonville, Mrs. Mollie Duvall, 95, became confined to her home two years ago.

She missed the church services she started attending at the age of 13, and could not reconcile herself to her inability to get around.

Members of the congregation attempted to find some way to ease her closing years, so they finally decided on a loud speaker.

Now Mrs. Duvall listens to an amplifier rigged up in her home. The minister speaks into the microphone attached to the altar, providing the once regular church-goer with a private sermon.

Mineral Oil As Laxative Called Harmful To Liver

California Medical School Gives Results Of Recent Study In Matter

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—Dangers that result from taking mineral oils, or preparations containing mineral oils as a laxative are pointed out in a bulletin released by the University of California Medical School at San Francisco.

Based on the recent study by Dr. J. W. Morgan of the school's department of surgery, the bulletin calls attention to the fact that mineral oils, heretofore thought to be non-absorbable have now been found by numerous tests sometimes to pass the absorptive surfaces of the small intestines and to reach the liver in small droplets, damaging that organ.

The author states that mineral oil hinders the intestinal food content through the canal thus preventing complete absorption and creating interference with nutrition. Dr. Morgan advises strongly against the general use of mineral oil on the ground that it may be, and often is, deleterious to health. He urges that it should never be taken except as advised by a physician.

The United States flag is popularly referred to as the "red, white and blue." The French flag has the same colors, but is known as the "blue, white and red."
